The End of the Line: How Overfishing Is Changing the World and What We Eat is a book by journalist Charles Clover about overfishing. Clover, a former environment editor of the Daily Telegraph (London) and now a columnist on the Sunday Times (London), describes how modern fishing is destroying ocean ecosystems.

The End Of The Line by Charles Clover - goodreads.com

Charles Clover tackles a topic in "The End of the Line" that for most people on the planet, especially in developed nations, is an out-of-sight, out-of-mind issue - i.e., the current (deplorable) status of global marine fisheries and global marine fisheries practices and policies.

The end of the line is the world's first major feature documentary about the devastating impact over fishing has had, and is having, on our oceans. Based on the book by former Telegraph journalist Charles Clover, and filmed over two years, The end of the line provides a dramatic expose of those in power who are taking advantage of the seas with catastrophic consequences on the world's fish.

Review of The End of the Line by Charles Clover

The End of the Line, first published in the UK to wide acclaim, is now available in the USA, having been extensively rewritten for an American audience. Clover, who is the environmental editor for The Daily Telegraph, one of Britain's leading newspapers, clearly lays out the simple, and pretty much indisputable facts: On the one hand, fish are a wonderful source of health-conscious protein. On
